Sizeable communities are concentrated in the following areas (in order of size):

2. New York: All boroughs of New York City, the largest Nigerian American community, plus Nassau and Westchester counties.
3. Texas: Harris (esp. the city of Houston), Fort Bend, Tarrant, Dallas, and Travis counties.
4. Georgia: Cobb, Dekalb, Fulton, Gwinnett counties, with Atlanta is the 5th largest Nigerian-American community.
5. New Jersey: Hudson, Essex, Bergen, Union and Middlesex counties, with a large porportion of Nigerians live in Newark.
6. Illinois: Cook County (esp. the city of Chicago).
7. California: Los Angeles (city and county),Fresno, San Bernardino, Orange, San Diego, Sacramento and Solano counties; and the San Francisco Bay Area: Alameda and Contra Costa counties.
8. Ohio: Hamilton and Montgomery counties, with Columbus being the 3rd largest Nigerian-American community.
9. Rhode Island: Providence County (with significant numbers of Nigerian Americans in Providence) and Pawtucket.

Nigerian Americans (Igbo: Ndị Naajíríyá n'Emeríkà; Hausa: Ƴan Najeriyar asalin Amurka; Yoruba: Àwọn omọ Nàìjíríà Amérikà) are an ethnic group of Americans who are of Nigerian ancestry. The number of Nigerian immigrants residing in the United States is rapidly growing, expanding from a small 1980 population of 25,000.^[3] The 2019 American Community Survey (ACS) estimated that 461,695 U.S. residents were of Nigerian ancestry.^[4] The 2019 ACS further estimated that around 392,811 of these (85%) had been born in Nigeria.^[5] Similar to its status as the most populous country in Africa,^[6] Nigeria is also the African country with the most migrants to the United States, as of 2013. In a study which was carried out by consumer genetics company 23andMe which involved the DNA of 50,281 people of African descent in the United States, Latin America and western Europe, it was revealed that Nigeria was the most common country of origin for testers from the US, the French Caribbean, and the British Caribbean.^[7] Nigerian-Americans, like British Nigerians, predominately originate from southern Nigeria, as opposed to the Islamic northern half of the country.^[8]
